GM falls out of top 3 global spenders

L'Oréal passes carmaker, moves in behind solid No. 1 P&G, Unilever

By LAUREL WENTZ
lwentz@adage.com

AFTER MANY YEARS as one of the top three global marketers, General Motors Corp. dropped to No. 4 based on 2007 ad spending, behind perennial leaders Procter & Gamble Co. and Unilever, as well as newly elevated L'Oréal, according to Ad Age's 22nd-annual Global Marketers report, which covers 86 countries.

In 2007, General Motors was the only one of the top 10 Global Marketers to cut ad spending, by 0.9% to $3.3 billion. Just 21 of Ad Age's Top 100 Global Marketers spent less in 2007 than in the previous year. The Top 100 as a whole spent $107.64 billion on measured media, an increase of 8% from 2006, although the U.S. was flat. U.S. spending was down 0.1% to $46.61 billion. (The high growth rate for spending outside the U.S. was partly due to appreciation of foreign currencies against the downtrodden dollar; the euro, for instance, was up 9.3% in 2007.)

Of course, that's likely to change dramatically in the next couple of years as ad-spending growth skids in a worldwide recession.

In a forecast out Dec. 8, Group M is predicting that 2008 ad spending will rise 0.3% in the U.S. and worldwide growth will slow to 2.6%. And the outlook for 2009 is bleak. Group M is forecasting a 3.2% decline in U.S. ad spending—a loss of $5.2 billion ad dollars—and a 0.2% fall for worldwide ad spending next year.

Prospects for other major markets also look grim. In early 2008, Group M hoped for 3% growth in U.K. ad spending next year, but the company's new global forecast slashes U.K. ad spending in 2009 by an estimated 5.6%, or $1.2 billion. For 2008, the group expects a 3% drop in the U.K.

If anything is certain in a turbulent economy, it's that Procter & Gamble will continue to be the world's biggest global advertiser. The company's global spending is almost twice as much as No. 2 Unilever's—$9.36 billion compared with $5.3 billion in 2007. More than half of P&G's advertising budget is invested outside the U.S., with Europe getting the most ad dollars: $3.11 billion, not far behind P&G's U.S. spending of $3.7 billion in 2007. P&G also spent $1.94 billion in Asia and $251 million in Latin America.

The Top 100 spent 43.3% of their measured-media budgets in the U.S. in 2007. In part, that reflects that the U.S. is the home market for 48 of the Top 100 Global Marketers, up from 46 last year.

Another 14 companies in the ranking are based in Japan, followed by Germany (10), France (9), the U.K. (6) and Korea (4). One marketer has changed nationalities: Following the acquisition of Anheuser-Busch Cos. by Belgian brewer InBev, Anheuser-Busch InBev is based in Leuven, Belgium.

An ad budget of $300 million was the cutoff for inclusion in the Top 100 Global Marketers ranking, though several American companies, such as AT&T, Verizon and Sprint, spent more than $1 billion but didn't make the list because their spending was almost entirely in the U.S. (A marketer had to report media spending on at least three continents to qualify as "global," regardless of its headquarters.)

Other American companies are expanding their global footprints. eBay made a first-time appearance in the ranking, at No. 100, after ramping up its ad budget, including an 82% jump in U.K. spending.

Five other marketers were added to the Top 100 list this year: U.S. companies Avon Products, Sara Lee Corp. and Eli Lilly & Co.; Japan's Mitsubishi Motors Corp.; and German pharmaceutical group Boehringer Ingelheim, which boosted its U.S. ad spending $42 million after acquiring the Zantac brand.

Measured media in the U.S. include magazines, Sunday magazines, newspapers, national newspapers, outdoor, spot TV, network TV, syndicated TV, cable TV networks, local radio, network radio, national spot radio, Spanish-language media and internet from TNS Media Intelligence found in the 100 Leading National Advertisers Special Report (AA, June 23). Outside the U.S., sources vary and are presented with each country chart beginning on Page 8. *Media spending in Canada, the Middle East and Africa are not broken out but are included in advertiser worldwide totals. 1) Tchibo Holding, which owns German coffee marketer Tchibo and controls personal-care marketer Beiersdorf, in July 2007 changed its name to Maxingvest.

METHODOLOGY FOR THE 2008 GLOBAL MARKETERS

GLOBAL MARKETERS that became the Top 100 were collated from media lists from 86 countries provided by monitoring services, primarily Nielsen, TNS, Ibope, PARC, Steadman, Sigma, and Ifat. In some cases, monitoring services are licensees or partners of Nielsen or TNS. Other independent companies also supplied data. McCann, JWT, Saatchi and MindShare also contributed significantly to the report.

Rankings provided by country listed as many as 500 advertisers to as few as 10. In all cases, the Ad Age DataCenter aggregated spending by parent company. For example, ASDA spending in the U.K. is attributed to Wal-Mart Stores for the Top 100 ranking. Data reported by brand were similarly summed by parent advertiser. (Wrigley is included in Mars, for example.)

Media lists per country were by gross ad rates. Advertising Age adjusted some markets' gross media expenditures to reflect a market's global media volume among all countries.

A Top 100 marketer had to have reported media spending this year on at least three continents to qualify as "global" regardless of headquarters.

As it was, Germany had 10 headquarters, France had nine and the U.K. had six among Top 100 marketers. Japan was home base for 14 and the U.S. for 48.

Because Ad Age treats exchange rates on a historic basis, exchange rate fluctuations increased spending outside the U.S. due to the falling dollar. Europe's 2007 media tallies were affected by a 9.3% increase in the euro and a 9.3% increase in the British pound versus the dollar. The yen was fairly stable, increasing only 0.3% against the dollar.

Revenue percent changes are based on more statistically accurate data than the printed revenues figures, which are in millions and rounded to one decimal place.

ABOUT THE U.S. DATA

Ad Age annually publishes a ranking of the 100 Leading National Advertisers (AA, June 23). That ranking is based on combined measured media figures (shown above) and estimated unmeasured advertising spending (not shown). The ranking and an interactive database featuring profiles of the top 100 can be found in the DataCenter on AdAge.com. Go to <http://adage.com/marketertrees08>. See notes on Page 4. *Nielsen also monitors U.S. ad spending.
